

I think the temporary ban on short selling is a positive step, but there needs to be a complete permanent ban as there are better ways to profit from falling markets.

People or institutions can buy put options, warrants or futures instead of the scamful short selling that profiteers at the expense of investors.

Patrick.